Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Thursday 11 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Cold and windy with blustery showers today.

Today:
Some sunny intervals and scattered showers, occasionally heavy with hail and thunder. Snow on high ground. Northeast drier and brighter. Feeling rather cold in the fresh to strong westerly winds.

Tonight:
Windy with showers, these most frequent across the west with snow on high ground. Driest in the northeast. Coastal westerly gales in the northwest.

Friday:
Little change, staying rather cold with a few showers. Some persistent rain likely in the southwest in the evening.

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Bright with occasional showers, some early rain in and hill snow the south. Rain developing across the southwest on Sunday, a few showers elsewhere. Mostly dry on Monday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.